

Did you know? KU is run like a corporation.

WeAreKU.dk/did-you-know

Although students and staff are the heart of KU, we have no say in how it is run or organized. Our rector is appointed by and answers to a Board whose unelected majority includes politicians, career board members, and CEOs — none of whom have any connection to the daily life of KU.

We can change this.

Did you know?
KU uses violence against students.

Did you know? KU has profited from unlawful investments.

Learn more at
WeAreKU.dk/did-you-know

Until recently, KU has been profiting from investments in UN-blacklisted companies operating in illegally occupied Palestine. The absence of any transparency in investment reporting makes it difficult to determine what other illegal activities the university may be profiting from.

Did you know?

KU is not standing up to climate collapse.

Learn more at
WeAreKU.dk/did-you-know

According to a survey by Dansk Ungdoms Fællesråd, 48% of 16-25-year-olds consider climate collapse to be the most important political issue. Yet, in its strategic plan, KU has not committed to sustainability as a core strategic ambition, nor has it implemented sustainability policies suggested by civil society groups.

Did you know? KU hosts a NATO-funded military research center.

Learn more at
WeAreKU.dk/did-you-know

A university should be dedicated to creating and sharing knowledge for the benefit of society, not to boosting war capacity. Yet, KU hosts a NATO-funded military research center (NATO DIANA Quantum Centre), which benefits organizations and companies focused on military intelligence and weapons research.

Did you know? KU engages in unethical exchange programs.

Learn more at
WeAreKU.dk/did-you-know

KU has an academic exchange agreement with the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, which is – through its Mount Scopus campus – occupying Palestinian land against international law, and has been an active component of the Israeli apartheid regime by providing military, academic, and legal support.
